Jubla creates joy

and lifelong friendships

Laughing together, experiencing unforgettable moments, singing and having fun around the campfire, being immersed in adventurous outdoor games, hiking and spending the night under the starry skies, pitching tents and cooking over the fire, drawing treasure maps, dressing up, putting heads together and coming up with ideas, shouldering responsibility and succeeding together, celebrating special moments, finding friends for life – Jungwacht Blauring offers all this and much more.

Jubla is all about recreational fun and the “school of life”

Jungwacht Blauring (Jubla) is a children's and youth organisation with around 400 local groups. It is open to everyone irrespective of ability, background or religion. Jubla stands for acceptance, respect and solidarity. At Jungwacht Blauring, children and young people spend varied and age-appropriate recreational time together. Youths and young adults lead regular Jubla activities on a voluntary basis. These receive training and skills development at leadership courses and are supported by experienced accompanying persons.

Jubla creates valuable and meaningful recreational activities

What sets Jubla apart

10,000 young leaders for valuable and meaningful recreational activities

Behind the Jungwacht Blauring offer are around 10,000 youth and young adults. These offer high-quality and meaningful recreational activities for over 22,000 children across Switzerland. The commitment of the young group leaders is on a voluntary basis and is carried out in their free time.

Support from accompanying persons

In their leadership roles, the Jubla leaders receive support from various accompanying persons within the Jubla network.

Qualitative training and skills development services

Training and skills development takes high priority at Jungwacht Blauring. This serves to strengthen the committed young people in their work with children and helps them to master the everyday challenges at Jubla. The courses help participants acquire the technical, social and leadership skills that are needed to carry out diverse and safe activities as leaders. The cooperation with Jugend+Sport and other partners safeguards a qualitative range of offers and services, all of which are tailored to the needs of the leaders.

The world of Jubla

Group activities

In Jubla, children of the same age meet regularly for group activities. Alongside numerous others, this could be making a hut at the edge of the forest, painting a giant chalk mandala, picking meadow herbs for a magic potion, cycling to a nearby stream, sledding down the village hill in deep snow or throwing a pyjama party on a summers night. The group activities are organised and carried out by the leaders, with the children playing an active role in giving them shape. This ensures that there is a broad range of recreational activities that take the interests of the children into account and guarantee unforgettable experiences together with friends.

Events

In addition to the group activities, there are other occasions and events where children can spend time with all of the members of the organisation. In this way, young and old are able to take part in a wide range of activities together. A scavenger hunt across the village, a cinema evening in the youth room, summer games in the school playground, a lantern march through the snow or smoked sausages and bread twists grilled over a forest campfire. Three to four times a year, Jubla offers fun times together, new challenges to try out and the chance to achieve great things!

Camp

The camp is one of the highlights of the year for almost every local group. Here, the children spend one to two weeks at a tent or hut camp, usually in the summer but at some groups also in autumn, winter or spring. During this time, it's all about diving into every facet of the Jubla world and experiencing countless adventures with friends, far away from everyday life – entirely in keeping with the Jubla motto!

At a Jubla camp, children and young people experience

- a wide variety of active games in the open air,
- hikes in nature and other sporting activities,
- cosy and tranquil get-togethers and singing around the campfire,
- delicious and balanced camp food,
- peaceful and special moments,
- creative crafts and woodwork,
- diverse group games,
- and much more!
